Chilkat Arrives Ship Expected

The Alaska Packers' tug, Chilkat, arrived from winter quarters at South Bend, Washington this week. She called in at Wrangell Monday and then steamed outside to meet and tow in the big cannery ship that is expected to arrive from San Francisco with the supplies and crew for the season.

Old Landmark Razed

An old Wrangell landmark, the Peter Deitch building, that has been leaning over the south Front Street sidewalk for some time, has been torn down this week. The back part of the building is a relic of the "boom days," having been built at the time of the klondike rush, for a brewery. Additions to the front have been made since but lately the building has been falling from neglect. Its dangerous condition was brought up in a Council meeting some weeks past and the owner notified to have it removed.

Alaska Home Rule Bill Passes Lower House

River Boat Launched

With the aid of skid grease, shouts, jacks etc. the new river boat, successor of the Telegraph, was launched from Grant's shop onto the briny bosom of Etolin Harbor at 2:45 last Sunday morning. About two more weeks will see the best Wrangell built boat completed and ready for a trial spin. Quite a number of people were present to witness the launching although at such a late hour, having remained up from a dance given for the occasion at the Wrangell Hotel.

Wrong Bearings.

After spending the greater part of the evening with friends John decided that home was the place for him, and, arriving there, he elected to sleep in the front yard. Next morning, happening to look up, he saw his wife observing him from an open window. "Shut that window!" he yelled. "Do you want me to catch my death of cold?"—Everybody's.

Wire was received this morning to the effect that the Alaska Home Rule Bill was passed by the Lower House yesterday, the 24th, and will go to the Senate at once.

Ordinance No. 37.

For Supplying the Alaska Sanitary Salmon Cannery Company With City Water; Limiting the Time For Said Supply and Providing For the Discontinuance of Same.

The Town of Wrangell, Alaska, does ordain as follows:—

PROVIDING FOR SUPPLY.

Sec. 1 It is hereby ordained by the Town Council of Wrangell, Alaska, that the Alaska Sanitary Packing Company shall be allowed to make the following connections with the City Water System, at a point designated by the Town Council, adjoining said Company's premises, and hold the same free of charge for a period of five years commencing June 1st, 1912, viz:—

- One connection for a sixty horse power steam boiler,
- One connection for a 3-4 inch tap for domestic use.
- One two inch stand pipe for fire purposes.

FOR WHAT REASON SUPPLY IS FURNISHED

Sec. 2 In return for the above privilege which is extended to the said company by the City Council, it is understood that any public revenues levied against said company, including Federal Tax on their salmon pack, shall accrue to the Town of Wrangell, and if said revenues and salmon tax should through any cause cease to be available for use in the Municipal Treasury of Wrangell, then the said Water privilege shall immediately cease at the discretion of the Wrangell Town Council.

TIME OF TAKING EFFECT.

Sec. 3 This ordinance shall be published in one issue of The Wrangell Sentinel, a weekly newspaper published in the Town of Wrangell, Alaska, and shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, approval and publication.

Passed this 30th day of March, 1912.

Approved and ordered published in one issue of The Wrangell Sentinel, this 30th day of March, 1912.

P. C. McCORMACK

President of the Common Council and ex-officio Mayor of Wrangell.

Jurors For May Term

The following citizens have been notified to appear for jury service at the spring term of court at Ketchikan on May 6th. Grand Jurors: L. M. Churchill, J. H. McGehee, W. E. Parrott, Peter Anderson, F. Coulter, C. E. Weber, C. H. Bryant, R. Hofstad and F. Spalding. Petit Jurors: K. J. Johansen, E. Ludecke, F. Farrer and Fred Barthold.

Pictures Saturday

J. R. Bender, Wrangell's producer of popular motion pictures, returned on the Seattle Tuesday from Ketchikan where he arranged with the showmen for a better-than-ever film service for his shows. A show is scheduled for Saturday night consisting of seven subjects including The Fall of Troy, a feature film of two reels.

Hunters For Iskut Grizzlies Must Suffer

Our annual spring influx of big game hunters seems to have begun in earnest. The latest arrival is J. C. Augsburg, of San Francisco, who, with Charlie Olson as guide, will endeavor to secure some grizzly trophies in the Iskut River country. Mr. Augsburg spent the greater part of last season in the Dease Lake and upper Stikine country.

Baron Von Hagen and Capt. Seyd, of Germany, whose arrival was reported last week, got away early Monday morning, their Sunday afternoon start being unsuccessful from accident to the gasboat. Charlie Roos, guide, and Roy Elliot, of Wrangell, were in the party.

St. Philip's Church

"Agreeing with ones self" will be the theme of St. Philip's Church Sunday evening, April 28th.

THE WRANGELL SENTINEL

HAROLD F. DAWES, Editor and Proprietor.

Published at Wrangell, Alaska, every Thursday Afternoon

Entered as Second Class Matter, at the Wrangell, Alaska, Postoffice, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

$2.50 per year in advance, otherwise $3.00 Foreign Countries 50c extra

This space was occupied recently by a "why not?" about the opportunities offered here for a laundry. The next day the Sentinel man was informed that Wrangell is to have one. Now the printer has no serious intention of having the shop towel laundered nor does he care to create a wrong impression as to the condition of the said towel but refers to the laundry subject again speculating as to the chances of a similar happening if an argument should be advanced for the organization of a Motor Boat Club. We do not anticipate being confronted tomorrow with such an organization but would be pleased to see Wrangell motor boat owners organize this summer. The possibilities afforded by a Motor Boat Club are numerous both on and off the water. Many social events could be given by the Club. Interesting parades, manouevres and races could be arranged. How would a parade of decorated motorboats be enjoyed say on July 4? A prize could be offered for the best decorations as well as the fleetest in a race, and slower boats would have an equal chance with the fleet in competing for honors. And the boatless numbers would follow the sport closely from (fish) box seats on the wharf. What's your "idea?"

The Sentinel man was put right this week in regard to a statement, or better a misstatement, in last week's paper of Mr. McCormack's opinion relative to the status of the old Council. The remark, made after a suggestion that the new Council take up the work and receive the report of the officers of the old Council, was that he would receive those reports if it took all summer.

The Preacher's Closing Word.

The members of the Rev. Dr. Fourthly's congregation settled themselves resignedly in their seats.

He had just said, "One word more, and I have done."

The doctor looked keenly at them over his glasses for a moment.

Then he closed the book in front of him.

"Amen!" he said.—Chicago Tribune.

Oriental Government.

The oriental nations knew hardly any other government than that of rulers who pretended to be delegated or inspired by the gods and who as such dictated to their subjects what they should believe and how they were to act. Government of this kind naturally ended in the ruin of every people who failed to rise above it.—Robert Flint, "Philosophy of History."

Making Progress.

"Well, Tommy," said the father of a six-year-old youngster, "how are you getting along at school?"

"Bully!" rejoined Tommy. "Guess the teacher is going to promote me."

"What makes you think so?"

"She said today that if I kept on at the rate I was going I'd soon be in the principal's class," explained Tommy.—Chicago News.

A Labouchere Story.

Lord Thunton was Labouchere's uncle, and some one, wishing to be agreeable to Labouchere, said, "Oh, Mr. Labouchere, I have just heard your father make an admirable speech in the house of lords."

"Really?" said Labouchere. "My father has been dead some years, and I always wondered where he had gone to."

Queer Idea About the Brain.

Old writers had no idea that the brain had anything to do with the mind. They associated the mind with the heart or with other organs of the body, doubtless because these organs are moved or affected by mental action. Aristotle, the best informed of the Greeks, said that the chief business of the brain was to cool the blood for the heart.

Opposition.

The effects of opposition are wonderful. There are men who rise refreshed on hearing of a threat—men to whom a crisis which intimidates and paralyzes the majority—demanding, not the faculties of prudence and thrift, but comprehension, immovableness, the readiness of sacrifice—comes graceful and beloved as a bride.—Emerson.

An Architectural Point.

"Now," said the architect, "we come to the plans for your chicken coop. Mrs. De Noo. I suppose you want the nests arranged in tiers."

"Why, really," said Mrs. De Noo, "I never thought much about that, but I should think for eggs they ought to come in layers, oughtn't they?"—Harper's.

Coined in Bedlam.

The phrase "to sham Abraham" was coined in Bedlam, or Bethlehem hospital, where there was at one time an Abraham ward, the inmates of which upon certain days were permitted to go out as licensed beggars on behalf of the hospital. These mendicant lunatics were known as "Abraham men," and their success in invoking the pity of the charitable was such that they had many unlicensed imitators, who, when discovered, were said "to have shammed Abraham."

HOSPITALITY.

Hospitality must be for service and not for show or it pulls down the host. The brave soul rates itself too high to value itself by the splendor of its table and its draperies. It gives what it hath and all it hath, but its own majesty can lend a better grace to bannocks and fair water than belongs to grand city feasts.—Emerson.

Moving Pictures The Fall of Troy

Every man, woman and child in Wrangell should avail themselves of this opportunity to see this wonderful production. You who have read this story of Grecian Mythology will remember the huge wooden horse that enabled the Greeks to capture the beautiful city and rescue Helen, the wife of a Grecian King, who had been stolen by Paris. The entire story, even the destruction of the city by fire, shown Saturday. See it.

Heck—Hasn't you who made her will? Heck—No; she's merely developed it.—Boston Transcript.

Milk and Butter.
Milk and butter, so a book called "Good Cheer" tells us, were not always daily necessities, as with us. Our fifteenth century ancestors in England seldom used either. They used great quantities of spices, however, in their food and apparently did not care for the more delicate flavors that suit our palates.

The Mexican Letter Writer.
As many of the lower classes in the City of Mexico can neither read nor write, the Mexican letter writer does a thriving business. He writes letters of all kinds—love letters, begging letters—it matters little to him so that he is paid for his work. These men are found in the Plaza of Santo Domingo, a sort of market place, where secondhand articles are for sale.

Limburger.
Contrary to the popular belief, Limburger cheese is no longer imported into the United States. Lest some persons may be misled into expressions of joy over this fact, it is necessary to state that American manufacturers are making a better grade of this cheese at so small a cost as to drive their foreign competitors out of the field.

Not Exciting.
In the "Life of James H. Stirling" it is related that Mrs. Stirling used to tell how, during a brief holiday to somewhere on the Clyde, being kept indoors by three wet days, Stirling read the Greek Testament continuously aloud to her, first in Greek and then in English. She was a truly religious woman, but she owned to being glad when the rain ceased.

Irritating.
James Payn tells of a whist player being told by an opponent that he could always tell by his face when he had a good hand. This he resented exceedingly and applied to his partner for a refutation of it, but he was only still more irritated by his form of corroboration "that he had never noticed any expression in his countenance whatever."

Her Idea of Cigars.
"Hereafter," said a smoker to his wife, "I prefer to buy my own cigars, darling. You are very good to volunteer to do my cigar buying, but really this bunch at twelve for a quarter is a little too cheap."
"I know twelve for a quarter is cheap," his wife answered, "but I thought there'd be one or two good ones in the twelve."—Exchange.

His Valuation.
The girl had demanded her letters back and he was shipping them by express.
"Valuation?" said the clerk.
"What's that?"
"Valuation. What are the contents of this package worth?"
"Put it at 30 cents," answered the young fellow with a scowl.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Early American Theatricals.
The earliest attempt to introduce theatrical performances in this country was made about 1683 in New England, but Increase Mathier wrote and spoke so forcibly in opposition to the project that it was speedily abandoned. The first theatrical performance in New York city of which there is any clear record was given March 5, 1750. The theater was on Nassau street, between John street and Maiden lane, and the play was "Richard III." Thomas Kean, the junior manager of the company, enacting the part of Richard.
